I have been at school almost for thirty years. I like to spent time at the library and have some fun with my friends. For me, the California State University has been one of the most great educative experience. I think the school has students from differents ethnicity and educational background. But I also believe that the school has some limitation to students from another countries. I really believe that ~~making~~ given more educational validity to the International transcriptions from another countries will let to the California State University be one of the most diversity school in California.

I believe that having an specialized office in charge of International transcriptions, ~~aan~~ the California State University Stanislaus ~~can could be more diverse~~ could have more diverse students. I noticed that there are a big amount of people from another countries such as Mexico, China, and India, but all of ~~each~~ the students are born in the U.S. the limitations that students have from another countries is that some of their studies or educational background gain in their native countries are not accepted, ~~that the~~ because there ~~is~~ not an office that can work funtionally with other foreign schools. Therefore, ~~students~~ foreign students ~~can not~~ do not have the possibility to come to the U.S schools. ~~[illegible]~~ For example, I had the same experience, when I came to the U.S. My educational background was not accepted because there was not way to check my education formation at school.

Another factor that can make the California State University Stanislaus more diverse is to accept degrees from another countries. During my time in school, I have not seen to much proffesors from another countries. The same problem that foreign students have, proffesors from another ethnicity have too. I really I get to emotional when I see proffesors that are from Mexico. For instance, I almost finished a degree in Mexico, but my classes that I had in Mexico were not accepted.

~~The problematics with International transcriptions should be normalized.~~

Therefore, I needed to go back to school. I started from ESL classes to college classes. It really was easy for me, because I had the educational background before. The hard part was that I needed to spend more time at school.

Today, I really think that having a ~~[illegible]~~ specialized office or center in charge of International transcriptions and accepted degrees from another countries will make the California State University a place with more changes and oportunities to International students; and a place with more etnicity people. However, I will be working hard to get my degree, but in the same time I will be working towards a better understanding for what students and proffessors from another countries can not come ~~the~~ and joint to the U.S schools.
