Management HUMAN RESOURCE TRACK

What will I study?

The Human Resource Track provides students with opportunities for learning in a mixture of courses oriented around a general theme of interpersonal relations and dynamics of organizing to achieve common goals. This includes teamwork, working effectively with others, and interacting productively with an increasingly diverse body of co-workers. Interesting classes include Organizational Behavior, HR Management, and Labor Relations.

Why choose HR Management at CSU Stanislaus?

While few in number, the faculty in Human Resource Management at CSU Stanislaus represent expertise in a wide array of managerial functional areas. Through traditional coursework and unique projects that often involve the local business community, faculty work with students to make the study of HRM a successful and enjoyable experience.

In addition, the HRM faculty and students are active in extracurricular activities, regularly receiving state, regional, and national honors in SHRM team competitions. In 2006, our academic competing team was named the National Human Resource Games champions. In recent years, one of our faculty members has been named National HR Advisor of the Year, and one of our students was named National HR Student of the Year.

What can I do with a degree in HR Management?

Graduates with a degree in Human Resource Management can explore the application of strategies and techniques to the internal dynamics of the organization, including personnel decisions and negotiation among the disparate parties that make up an organization.

The Management Department endeavors to:

- Provide an outlet for — and appeal to — the student who has an interest in the study of organizational behavior and the application of personnel management principles and techniques.

POTENTIAL CAREER TIMELINE

A clear path for opportunity is easy to discern based upon actual data from our alumni and personnel from the City of Turlock.

Right now, CSU Stanislaus HR Management graduates are employed as Career Development Specialists, Human Resources Managers, Recruitment Managers, Labor Negotiators, and Management Analysts.

Owner, My Garden Café

As graduation from Modesto Junior College grew near, it became apparent to Welch that the most logical place to continue her education was CSU Stanislaus. She made her decision because “the University was an affordable choice at a great school.”

After being unsure of a major for a while, Welch was promoted into management from her hostess position at a local restaurant. As she continued to enjoy her job and learn new skills, it occurred to her that a degree in Business Administration was a perfect fit because she could use many new skills learned from classes and apply them directly to her job.

In 2003, Welch graduated from CSU Stanislaus shortly after opening her first restaurant — My Garden Café in Ripon. Since then, she has opened a second My Garden Café in Modesto.

Welch gives much credit for the restaurants’ success to her dedicated and hard-working staff. The business is thriving and she couldn’t be happier. Having a Business Administration degree from CSU Stanislaus gave her the opportunity to be her own boss. Now, she frequently encourage her employees to use their job at her restaurant so they might be able to do the same.
