

Quick Facts

The purpose of the Quick Facts is to provide a "snapshot" of institutional data including information about the University history, census-date student enrollments and demographics, degrees awarded, educational programs, and faculty and staff population.

Academic Programs

The University offers over 100 majors, minors, concentrations and teaching credentials, 24 master's degree programs and six graduate certificate programs as well as an Executive MBA and a doctoral degree program in Educational Leadership. Students are encouraged to take courses to give them a broad understanding of the liberal arts and sciences in their first two years so they can make an informed choice of specialization.

Faculty

The highly accessible faculty is renowned for teaching, research, and service. More than half of the faculty are full time tenured or tenure track. Over eighty percent of full time faculty hold doctorates or terminal degrees in their fields. There are 265 full time and 178 part time faculty.

Student Body

The diverse student body includes many first generation college students and working parents. The student body of 8,305 includes 6,972 undergraduate students and 1,333 graduate students (fall 2010).

*The 2009-10 CSU Graduate and Undergraduate Application marked the beginning of the transition to a new data collection process for ethnic and race data that was mandated by the Federal Government. Starting Fall 2009, applicants can self-identify with multiple racial groups. Students were encouraged to re-identify their ethnic and race backgrounds based on the new guidelines. Therefore, all ethnic and race data will reflect the new data collection process.
