University Policing Advisory Board (UPAB)

Charge & Responsibilities
The University Policing Advisory Board (UPAB) is an independent, diverse, and representative group that oversees and make recommendations to the President regarding the campus’ University Police Department (UPD) in the areas of: policing responsibilities, issues and concerns; community, city, and campus outreach and educational programming; officer and staff training and philosophy; and the use of fair and impartial policies and protocols that promote and enhance community safety for all members of our community. The goal is to promote a respectful, welcoming, safe, inclusive, equitable, supportive, and affirming environment for students, faculty, staff, administrators, and visitors to the Stanislaus State campus.

UPAB serves to increase members’ and the campus’ understanding of multiple issues affecting public safety, including crime reduction programs, the role of UPD community outreach and policing philosophy, and how to improve upon the delivery of police services to our campus community (e.g., updates regarding relevant laws and issues related to policing including existing CSU UPD training standards and policies).

For example, the UPAB supports UPD in creating shared learning and anti-bias environments and programs where officers and members of the campus community interact and learn together.

7. Prepares an annual report for submission to the President and the broader campus community at the beginning of each Fall semester of all activities, progress, and challenges towards building trust, accountability, and improvements in policing and community safety, and includes recommendations for the President to adopt in pursuit of a healthier and safer campus climate.
