

Faculty Employment Opportunity

- POSITION: ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF CHILD DEVELOPMENT: The Department of Psychology and Child Development invites applications for an Assistant Professor. Position requires a strong general developmental background as well as expertise in a particular developmental focus of choice—such as biological bases of development, cross-cultural development, child life, parenting, physical/motor development, language and literacy, etc. Position requires a strong history and commitment to teaching child development theory and application/laboratory classes in infancy, childhood, and adolescence at the undergraduate level, and graduate level. We seek to hire an individual who is familiar with on-campus child development laboratories and an individual who can enhance the programs on both the Turlock and Stockton campuses. This individual must demonstrate teaching excellence to a diverse student population as well as successful experiences in student advising, supervision of undergraduate interns, graduate thesis and project supervision, service to the department and university, and potential for outstanding scholarly activity and external funding. Effective teaching, scholarly productivity, are required for retention, promotion, and tenure. This position is contingent upon the availability of authorized funding.
- MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS: Ph.D. in Child/Human Development, Developmental Psychology, or related field with a strong background in theory, research, and application.
- PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS: Preference will be given to candidates with: evidence of high quality teaching, teaching expertise with diverse populations, previous experience with funded research, and who have completed their Ph.D. by the time of appointment.
- HOW TO APPLY & DEADLINE: A complete application must include: (1) a cover letter that specifically addresses the position description and qualifications; (2) unofficial photocopies of graduate transcripts (official transcripts will be required at the time of hire); (3) a curriculum vita, including the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of three references (letters of reference may be required at a later time); (4) statement of teaching philosophy and research interests. If available, candidates should also forward representative teaching materials (e.g., syllabi and sample course materials), evidence of teaching effectiveness, and a sample publication. Screening of completed application files will begin immediately. The position will remain open until filled. This appointment will begin August 2018.
