Hazing: A Growing Epidemic for All School Organizations

ABOUT DEREK MARCHMAN:
Derek began working with a multitude of campus athletic programs and Greek organizations addressing deviant behavior with character based prevention programs. His lectures include Dating Violence, Leadership, Maximizing Potential, Alcohol and Substance Abuse Initiatives, Effective Relationships and pushing Character over Competency.

Derek’s current initiative involves implementing grants for Rockdale County to develop a family violence court and to participate in the Violence Against Women Act Office’s Homicide Prevention Initiative as a demonstration site to conduct research on lethality indicators.

Derek also serves as an Adjunct Professor at Gordon State College teaching Psychology and Criminology. Lastly, he is a PhD Candidate working on his dissertation studying the potential for officers to experience cognitive dissonance while responding to family violence incidents.
