Handwritten Invitation: A Collection of Short Stories and Poems

My project is a creative project that dives into some of the most human elements of life through the expression of writing. The project will be a collection of fictional and creative nonfictional short stories and poems. The primary topics that it will hit on are themes of growing up, overcoming struggles, and general emotions. With this in mind, the collection aims to serve a wide-ranging audience in hopes of emphasizing a human connection that each person has with another. While some pieces will be deliberately about the themes established in creative brainstorming, others will be more reflective pieces on the little things in life. This project aims to be a celebration of the human experience and the ability to write creatively and expressively. It is my hope that every reader who comes across this collection will find something that they can take away and that it further promotes writing the stories that are in each one of us.
